W. D. MELTON DIES FROM HIS INJURIES

Fell Off Street Car on Broadway Last Night

Bandana Business Man Fractures His Skull on Bitulithic Paving Near Sixth.

LEAVES NUMEROUS FAMILY.

W. D. Melton, 50 years old, of Bandana, a well known merchant and prominent man of that section, jumped from a moving Broadway car last evening at 6 o'clock at Seventh street and Broadway, and fell, striking and fracturing his skull and fatally injuring him. He died at Riverside hospital at 7:30 o'clock.

Drs. Robertson, Boyd and Blythe were summoned. The patient was removed at once to Riverside hospital in the patrol wagon, where a minute examination at the hospital showed that an operation was hopeless.

The body was removed to the Guy Nance morgue, where it was held until today when Coroner Eaker held an inquest.

W. D. Melton several months ago made an assignment, and later went into bankruptcy. F. G. Rudolph was appointed trustee and had recently sold property, but had not consummated the deal, no bond having yet been made. The estate was worth several thousand dollars, and after the act of bankruptcy, Melton entered the mercantile business again. He was in the general merchandise business at the time of death.

Coroner Frank Eaker is holding the inquest this afternoon and there are more than a dozen witnesses to testify. The inquisition is being held in the parlors of the Guy Nance undertaking establishment.

The evidence will show that Melton boarded car, No. 96, of the Broadway line, at Eleventh street and Broadway. The car was in charge of Motorman B. J. Sherrill and Conductor T. A. Keith. Melton asked for a transfer to the Union station, and was given it. He left the car at Sixth street. Thinking the returning Broadway car was a depot line car, Melton boarded it. Twenty-five or thirty passengers were aboard, and when Conductor Keith asked for his fare Melton proffered the transfer. Keith informed him he was on the wrong car, and ringing the bell for Seventh street, informed Melton he would let him off at that corner. Continuing to collect fares, Keith paid no more attention to Melton until he heard exclamations from passengers, and saw Melton lying on the ground. By that time the car had stopped.

One eye witness, who saw the accident, is Motorman B. J. Jones, who was trailing behind the Broadway car on a Jackson street car. He states that Melton stood with his face in the opposite direction from that in which the car was running, and stepped off.

The Funeral.

This afternoon at 5 o'clock the body will be taken to the residence of his son, Mr. W. K. Melton, an I. C. fireman, at 1213 Monroe street. Tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock the funeral will start from the son's residence. The burial will be at New Liberty church cemetery near Rossington.

LAUNCH SCUTTLED BY HER PROPELLER

Brookport Party Has Trying Experience on Way to Paducah at Night

Standing knee deep in water in a gasoline launch, Capt. and Mrs. Charles Ford and Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Brown, all prominent residents of Brookport, had an exciting experience last night about 7:30 o'clock at Owen's island in the Ohio river just below Paducah. They decided they would come to this city and see the show at Wallace park and started in the launch "Helen," from Brookport at 7 o'clock. When near the city they heard a blow on the bottom of the boat and in a second they were standing shoe deep in water. Buckets were used to bail out the boat, but it was too slow and grabbing the paddles they started for Owen's island with the boat filling rapidly. Mrs. Ford and Mrs. Brown were calm and coolly put on life preservers and steered the boat while their husbands paddled. As the boat was nearly filled Capt. Ford jumped into the river to relieve the boat of his weight. Soon the boat landed on the island in several feet of water and the party waded ashore. An examination showed the propeller had broken and knocked a hole in the bottom of the boat. They were on the island when J. R. Hill sighted them and went to the island. He was bringing a party from Brookport to the city in a gasoline launch and had a skiff attached. He loaned the party the skiff and they floated back to Brookport. Capt. Ford is captain of the transfer steamer used between Paducah and Brookport.

JEWELL DISMISSED IN SUNDAY SELLING CASE

Witness For Prosecution Was Sure it Was Not Defendant Selling Whisky

J. W. Jewell, doing business at Sixth and Finley streets, under the firm name of Jewel Bros., was dismissed on the charge of selling liquor on the Sabbath this morning in police court.

Patrolmen Ernest Hill and William Rogers went to the residence of George Hall and found him with a bottle of whisky. Hall's wife told the patrolmen that Hall got it that day, (last Sunday) at Jewel Bros. saloon and grocery. The warrant was sworn out, but this morning the evidence of Hill and Rogers as to what Mrs. Hall told them was excluded, not being competent. Jewell swore that he refused to sell to Hall and Hall swore the same.

Hall said he didn't know from whom he purchased the liquor. He gave the money to some man in the rear of Jewel's saloon, who told him he could get the liquor. Bad feeling against the policemen was engendered over the affair, and Ross Thomas preferred charges against Patrolman Hill before Mayor Yeiser. The mayor says the evidence at the trial was so conflicting, that he suspects some one of false swearing, and he will investigate the matter.

In the meantime the accusation against Patrolman Hill, a popular and efficient officer, will go before the commissioners.

POLICE AND FIRE COMMISSIONERS

Fire and police commissioners will have their hands full at the next meeting night investigating the alleged misconduct of firemen and one patrolman. It is stated that three firemen have been charged with one class of insubordination, and two of a personal difficulty, while the policeman is charged with neglect of duty in failing to arrest two alleged violators of the law. The fire department is using extra men until the matters are finally settled by the board in four of the cases.

LAND OPTIONS ACROSS RIVER

Secured by St. Louis Man, Apparently For Railroad Terminals There

HE NAMES FANCY FIGURE

Three Hundred and Ninety Acres and Narrow Strip to River Bank

BROOKPORT IS EXCITED

All Brookport is excited over rumors of a railroad project, born of an option on land across the river from this city, which was closed a few days ago by Lyman E. Alotz, a stock exchange man and member of the Mississippi Valley Trust company, of St. Louis. The option includes 240 acres of high ground a mile from the river and a mile above Brookport, with 150 acres adjoining, and a narrow strip running down to the river bank, almost directly opposite Riverside hospital.

The 240 acres and the right of way to the river, belong to J. K. West, of Brookport. The 150 acres belong to a colored man. The deal is one of a series that has excited curiosity.

In 1905 this same St. Louis man purchased the 240 acres from Mr. West for $5,000 and sold the tract back the next year for $6,000. The option price now is $19,000, some 300 per cent advance.

Mr. West said, when interviewed today: "The deal is closed. At least, Mr. Alotz has the option. It looks like a railroad proposition the way the land lies although Mr. Alotz would not tell me so. When we first negotiated he said he intended to start a boom town; but when we were ready to consummate the deal, he demanded a strip a mile long running down to the river from the tract, and containing, approximately 60 acres. This could not be used for anything valuable, to my notion, except a railroad line of some kind. The 240 acres and the 150 acres are on high ground. I know Mr. Alotz is interested in the Mississippi Valley Trust company, and I think he represents other parties."

BOYLE SCORES POINT IN LICENSE CASE

Judge Barker Says No Conviction and, So, No Revocation Now

Attorneys for Hugh Boyle, who appealed from judgment in the police court for Sunday selling, scored a point today, when Judge Barker, of the court of appeals, sitting at Louisville, held Mayor Yeiser's revocation of Boyle's license void until after the court of appeals had decided the case. This disposes of the charges of selling without a license. When Boyle was fined, Mayor Yeiser revoked his licenses, and had warrants issued for selling without a license, when he kept open, Boyle appealed, and Judge Barker, holds that there is no conviction, on which the mayor may base his revocation, until the case is finally disposed of in the court of appeals. This news came in a telegram to Attorney Eugene Graves, representing Boyle, from his co-counsel, Hal S. Corbett, at Louisville. Mayor Yeiser received a telegram from City Solicitor Campbell that the judge sustains Judge Reed, holds the ordinance permitting revocation, valid, and dissolves the injunction.

DEPARTMENTAL WORK CONTINUES

Supt. Carnegie Favors Present Plan in That Regard

Makes Series of Recommendations To School Board at Regular Meeting.

POLICY OF NEW SCHOOL HEAD.

Recommendations from Superintendent John A. Carnegie were received at the meeting of the school board last night and each recommendation was referred to the proper committee for consideration. As to the school hours Superintendent Carnegie recommended that the morning session begin at 8:45 o'clock and close at 11:45 o'clock, providing that the first grade shall dismiss at 11:15 o'clock and the second grade at 11:30 o'clock. The afternoon session shall begin at 1:15 o'clock and close at 3:45 o'clock, provided the first grade shall dismiss at 3:15 o'clock and the second grade 3:30 o'clock. Professor Carnegie does not favor the one session plan.

He recommended that the present departmental plan be continued at the Washington building, and said that it would be a backward step to change the plan. Since it will be several weeks after the opening of school, before the new buildings are completed Professor Carnegie asked that arrangements be made to rent the Longfellow building for a month or two. All buildings will be scrubbed, and disinfectants used on the woodwork, and each building fumigated before the opening of school. Manual training can not be introduced this session, but a committee will be appointed to arrange for its introduction as soon as possible. A commercial course was recommended for the high school, and the superintendent said the truancy law must be enforced. A short review of the number of pupils in the high school was made.

Superintendent Carnegie pointed out that a greater proportion of the school population should be in school. All buildings and surroundings should be made more attractive, and he recommended pictures for the walls and grass plots in the yard. The need of a secretary by the superintendent was spoken of, and the question was referred to a special committee composed of Trustees Beckenbach, Kames and Mammen. Superintendent Carnegie read a short report to the board.

and it was full of optimism, and the relation of the superintendent and board to each other.

The course of study for the high school and grades was adopted. There will be no change of text books and the changes in the high school are: trigonometry and solid geometry exchange places. The history remains the same, except that American history, in the fourth year, is required. English is required for the entire four years. Latin remains the same, but German will be offered the first two years and French the last two. In the grades, the first and second grades will drop text books.

Two bids were in for the installing of heating apparatus in the second story of the McKinley building, but a misunderstanding arose among the bidders as Ed D. Hannan bid 2,000 feet of radiation for $890 and Fred Shiffman 1,536 feet of radiation for $650. Since the specifications called for 2,000 feet the contract was awarded Mr. Hannan.

Prof. J. M. Calvin, of Hopkinsville, was elected to the principalship of the R. E. Lee building, to succeed Prof. W. Johnson, resigned. Prof. Calvin has been principal of the high school at Dixon, and comes well recommended to the board.

Bills to the amount of $492.75 were allowed by the board. J. D. Gibbs, who has the contract for the coal to the schools, asked that for the Jefferson, Garfield, and the new building in Rowlandtown he be excused from weighing on the city scales as the distance is too great to go. Instead he will pay any man the board may select to weigh the coal, and the scales are to be tested as to accuracy. President Potter was granted permission to name the person to weigh the coal.

The need of stationary was referred to the printing committee. The report of Fred Hoyer, superintendent of buildings, was received, and filed. Mr. George O. McBroom and Mrs. John J. Dorian were appointed examiners for teachers. Miss Elizabeth Graham was elected as a teacher and will be placed by Professor Carnegie and the committee on examinations and course of study.

Secretary Byrd had the minutes of the last meeting twisted in several places, and President Potter called his attention to the importance of getting the minutes correct, and said, if he couldn't do it any other way, to write them. With corrections the minutes were adopted. The secretary had the minutes at the meeting last night, but he failed to bring from home his roll-calls.

Trustees Morris and Clements were the absentees from last night's meeting.

RAILROADS RESIST

GOVERNMENT'S INVESTIGATION OF REBATES.

Action of Judge Landis Unites Common Carriers With Standard Oil Trust.

Chicago, Aug. 7.—A conference indicating combination of interests between the Standard Oil corporation and the railroads to fight further government investigation is now in progress in Chicago and New York, according to the Chicago Record-Herald. The Alton, Burlington and Chicago and Eastern Illinois lines jointly named in the 4,391 indictments returned by the federal grand jury are reported to be in the negotiations.

The attitude of Judge Landis in declaring railroads equally culpable with the oil corporations in rebating offenses and calling upon the grand jury to act has caused a hasty banding together of the different interests.

Abstemious Royalty.

It is a true, though little known, fact that the majority of the members of the British royal family are teetotalers. For instance, Queen Victoria of Spain does not know the taste of alcohol. Her favorite drink is made from oranges—the fresh fruit squeezed into a glass, which is filled with aerated waters. Oranges are her favorite fruit. For years Princess Henry of Battenberg was a teetotaler, but of late she has suffered so much from rheumatism that she has been ordered to take a little whisky, which she regards as a penance.

Both Princess Christian's daughters, too, are teetotalers. All the children of the prince and princess of Wales are being brought up strict teetotalers, and they know nothing of alcohol. Princess Patricia of Connaught and her married sister also abjure wine.

Another royal teetotaler is the duchess of Argyll, and the two daughters of the princess royal, her highness Alexandra and Mand, have never in their lives touched wine or spirits.—London Answers.

SO SOOTHING.

Its Influence Has Been Felt by So Many Paducah Readers.

The soothing influence of relief After suffering from itching piles, From Eczema or any itchininess of the skin, Makes one feel grateful to the remedy.

Doan's Ointment has soothed hundreds.

Here's what one Paducah citizen says:

J. R. Womble, of 1162 Broadway, Paducah, Ky., says: "For years I was a sufferer from itching piles in a very severe form. They were the plague of my life. When I would get heated up they would annoy me terribly and at night I could get no rest. I have often got up and walked around the room. I believe I have tried nearly every remedy that has been on the market but nothing ever gave me the desired relief until I got a box of Doan's Ointment at DuBois & Co.'s drug store. The very first application gave me relief and after the second day I could go to bed at night and sleep peacefully and quietly as anyone. The one box cured me entirely. It is now about three months since I used it and there has been no sign of a return. I also used the Ointment on my hand for a sore and found it very healing." (From statement given in 1900.)

A Lasting Cure.

On February 18, Mr. Womble confirmed the above statement by saying: "I gave a statement in 1900 telling how Doan's Ointment had cured me of a severe case of itching piles. I am glad to confirm that statement at this time as the cure has been lasting. Doan's Ointment is certainly a superior remedy for this trouble or any skin affection."

LAST PRESENTATION OF THE BRILLIANT SPECTACLE.

Last Night's Audience Was Too Big to Handle and They Were Standing Up in Grand Stand.

"Moscow" again played to capacity business last evening and added hundreds to its already numerous crowd of friends and admirers.

The vaudeville features elicited universal applause and wonder that such an excellent bill can be produced with the supplementary features of pantomime.

Tonight's performance will be the final one of the engagement, and it is anticipated that the few of Paducah who have not already seen "Moscow" will fall in line with the hundreds who are going again to see the great spectacle and who will be treated to a complete change of program in the fire works, and a pyrotechnical display of such brilliancy and grandeur as will have an enduring impression on the people of Paducah.

SONOMA GIRL

BREAKS SULKY AND BREAKS RECORD ALONG WITH IT.

Breaks in Two Heats, Crashes Into Fence and Lands Winning Heats After All.

Buffalo, Aug. 7.—Sonoma Girl, the unbeaten California mare and winner of the M. and M. stakes, won a sensational race in the Empire state stakes $10,000. After getting away nicely in the first heat she broke at the quarter and before she regained her feet the field was far away. The game mare went after the leaders, but just managed to get inside the distance flag. Despite the bad race, she held favorite in the second heat, winning handily. In the third heat Sonoma Girl broke at the quarter and crashed into the fence, throwing her owner and driver, J. D. Springer, who was uninjured. With shattered sulky at her feet the mare ran away for nearly a mile. After an investigation of the accident the judges placed her sixth. Sonoma Girl was not hurt and with a little urging she won the fourth and deciding heat.

CONFERENCE IS NOW UNWIELDY

Discussion of Proposition to Reduce the Number of Delegates.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 7.—Methodists are discussing a proposition to reduce the size of the general conference, which, it is alleged, is now so large a body that its deliberations are hampered. The Methodist general conference is more than twice as large as the national house of representatives. The Methodist church is constantly growing, therefore it is urged that the basis of representation should be changed, reducing the number of delegates.

The matter was presented to the general conference three years ago, but it is said to have died in committee, never having been brought up for action, and this notwithstanding the fact that at least 20 memorials had been sent to the conference asking legislation that should reduce its numbers. It is held to be likely that the general conference next spring will, at the least, consider it, although Methodists hold that the action looked for is by no means certain.

There is opposition to the movement. Some claim that the general conference would cease to be a Democratic body were the basis of representation to be changed so as to reduce the membership. To this reply is made by those advocating a change that the essence of Democratic government of a church is not in the size of the governing body but in the method by which its members are chosen, and they further assert that in this particular the Methodist is not now a truly democratic church.

Others again urge the reduction because of the saving that would be effected in the expenses of the general conference. These grow larger with each conference through the added number of delegates, whose expenses are paid by the church. It is argued that a sufficient reduction could easily be made to save an amount sufficient to support 500 native pastors in the mission field for a year. The fall and spring annual conferences, which are to be held before the next meeting of the general conference, are expected to take action

MOTHERHOOD

The first requisite of a good mother is good health, and the experience of maternity should not be approached without careful physical preparation, as a woman who is in good physical condition transmits to her children the blessings of a good constitution.

Preparation for healthy maternity is accomplished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made from native roots and herbs, more successfully than by any other medicine because it gives tone and strength to the entire feminine organism, curing displacements, ulceration and inflammation, and the result is less suffering and more children healthy at birth. For more than thirty years.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standby of American mothers in preparing for childbirth. Note what Mrs. James Chester, of 437 W. 35th St., New York says in this letter:—Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I wish every expectant mother knew about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. A neighbor who had learned of its great value at this trying period of a woman's life urged me to try it and I did so, and I cannot say enough in regard to the good it did me. I recovered quickly and am in the best of health now."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is certainly a successful remedy for the peculiar weaknesses and ailments of women. It has cured almost every form of Female Complaints, Dragging Sensations, Weak Back, Falling and Displacements, Inflammation, Ulcerations and Organic Diseases of Women and is invaluable in preparing for Childbirth and during the Change of Life.

Comforting.
A lady who had recently moved to the suburbs was very fond of her first brood of chickens. Going out one afternoon she left the household in charge of her 8-year-old boy. The youngster forgot the chicks during the storm, and was dismayed, after it passed, to find that half of them had been drowned. Though fearing the wrath to come, he thought best to make a clean breast of the calamity, rather than leave it to be discovered.

"Mamma," he said contritely, when his mother had returned—"mamma, six of the chickens are dead."

"Dead!" cried his mother. "Six! How did they die?"

"The boy saw his chance. 'I think I think they died happy.'"

"I think," he said.—Harper's Weekly.

Married Women

Every woman covets a shapely, pretty figure, and many of them deplore the loss of their girlish forms after marriage. The bearing of children is often destructive to the mother's shapeliness. All of this can be avoided, however, by the use of Mother's Friend before baby comes, as this great liniment always prepares the body for the strain upon it, and preserves the symmetry of her form. Mother's Friend overcomes all the danger of child-birth, and carries the expectant mother safely through this critical period without pain. It is woman's greatest blessing. Thousands gratefully tell of the benefit and relief derived from the use of this wonderful remedy. Sold by all druggists at $1.00 per bottle. Our little book, telling all about this liniment, will be sent free.

GEO. ADE'S FABLES

The Sorrows of the Unemployed and the Danger of Changing From Bill to Harold.

(Copyright, 1922, 1923, by Robert H. Russell.)

SUBSISTY.

He cabbed all the Corner Lots and pulled the Main Street Frontage and then held on like a Summer Wind.

He was a grumpy old Bachelor who wore one Suit the Year round, with a Pair of box-toed Boots, a woolen Hat, and a Moss-Agate Collar-Button. While he was doing Business at 2 per cent, a Month, and holding out on the Assessor and blicking the Grangers for Railway franchises, he was regarded as a Wolf. After he changed his address to Over There, the Hairs erected something that looked like the Bunker Hill Monument, and then they had done in Oil by a celebrated Artist. The Artist fixed his Hair for him and gave him a neat Stand-Up Collar such as no one could have put on to the Old Man with a Black and Tackle. They named a School after him, and every one in Town who was related to him could butt into Society without a Ticket.

The Large End of all the Bonds mentioned in the last Will and Testament went to a Son named William H. Jimmison. On the way back from the Cemetery he took out as a pencil and figured to see what he was worth, and then he changed his Name to W. Harold Jimmison.

W. Harold had been compelled to fly fairly close to the Ground, while the Governor was on Deck, but when there was no one to keep Tab on him he began to find $100 Bills in his Chair when he was looking for a Card and it seemed to vex him a good deal.

A few Years before W. Harold became surrounded by Currency he had taken a Wife, without very much of a Struggle. Leonora was of a very Nice Family, that owed something on the House and kept a Girl part of the Time. After she began to have a Government for Staycases Jimmison and an Imported Nurse for the Little Evelyn Jimmison her Memory seemed to blur in Spots and she couldn't have done up the Dish to save her life.

When she was out in her Brougham it kept her busy not seeing her Childhood Friends who used to go to Kiss ing Parties and Taffy Pails with her. That was why she wanted to get to Paris, where True Social Worth is recognized right on the Jump. Her Husband, also, was getting sore on his Birthplace. His Acquaintances would not stand for the W. Harold Gag. They called him "Bill."

POLO WAS A BOHE.

Then, on top of it all, the two Cases of Offspring needed the French Language. Leonora was already feeding their Legs to the Mosquitoes because some one had told her that the real Delicacies always left the Kids partly uncovered, a la Parisienne.

W. Harold closed out all his Interests, and when he got through he had his Bank-Roll in one neat Stack of Bonds. All he had to do for the remainder of his Natural was to clip the Coupons every Six Months. Between times he could enjoy himself. It looked Soft.

W. Harold and Bunch, including a Retinue of Private Secretaries, Hair-Dressers, and Maids, as well as a Keeper, sometimes known as a Valet, set out for Yurrap. As Harold sized up the Caravansary he swelled with Satisfaction and said, "Little would any one suspect that we have been out of the Hazel Brush less than 3 Months."

Now that he was beyond the Range of the unlettered Rubie, he began to do a little Landscape Gardening on the Frontpiece, laying out a very neat Set of Depews. He wore Gloves even at Night, and worked for Hours trying to get a side-hold on the Piccadilly Accent.

The joyful Jimmisons cut a 14-foot Gash right through the centre of the Continent. They saw everything mentioned in the Red Book, and finally struck Paris, with a loud, metallic Sound. There they settled down to remain forever, in the Shade of the sheltering Absinthe Frappe, with the Grisettes singing in the Trees.

But W. Harold had inherited a few restless Microbes from the parental Hustler. After he had seen all the Pictures from every Angle and had worn out two or three Chairs sitting around Cafes, he began to long for the Nasal Twang and something to do. The whole Kit and Tribe moved back to the States.

He learned that the Proper Caper for one who is out of Work and all cleaned up with Funds is to build a Cottage overlooking the Sea and work up Features for the Sunday Papers. Accordingly he threw up a Shack with Onyx Foundations and Florida Water piped into every Room. It faced four different Ways. The Excursionists rode in from as far away as Swanzy to look at it and wait for the Real Things to come out and pile into the Blue Assassin and go out hunting Baby Carriages.

After the keen Pleasure of being pointed out had somewhat dulled and the Homi-slide Wage on had palled on them and Potowas a Bore and Ping-Pong a Misdecanor and Golf a Crime, poor Harold and Leonora found the m-selves up against it, strong and plenty. She gave a few Dog Parties and one for a Prince, but even these Gayeties petered out after a while. Sometimes Leonora was afraid that in order to kill Time she would either have to mingle with her Children or else take to Reading, but she hated to cause Talk.

She and W. Harold found themselves in the great Army of the Unemployed. And yet all the Factories were running double Shifts and Harvest Hands getting $3 a day.

At last they became so Desperate and Lonely that they fell in love with each other out of yearning Sympathy, and this gave rise to so much Scandal that they had to go back to the Other Side to live it down.

ADDICKS BROKE; WIFE HAS MONEY

He Gave it to Her When He Was Rich and Fond

Now She Is Suing Him for Divorce and Offers Not a Penny for His Comfort.

FORMER SENATOR'S FLIGHT.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 7.—Dead broke and with debts of millions, J. O'Sullivan Edward Addicks, former senator from Delaware, arch gas man, and former friend of Thomas W. Lawson, is facing divorce from his third matrimonial venture.

This in itself would not worry Mr. Addicks, who is now in the wilds of lower Maryland, but the irony of the situation is that Mrs. Addicks No. 3 has about three-quarters of a million dollars in stocks and bonds settled on her by her husband in a period of infatuation and about $200,000 worth of jewels bought on the proceeds of a sale of Amalgamated Copper on a tip from Tom Lawson. Besides she is in possession of the homestead at Lynnewood, Del., which is worth possibly $50,000 more. None of this can Addicks touch.

At the same time of the news of the estrangement with wife No. 3 the fact also is made public that wife No. 2 has died and that the daughter of wife No. 1 is her administratrix and heiress. Wife No. 2 died possessed of about $300,000, all of which Addicks gave her to be allowed to marry wife No. 3. He can't touch any of this, either.

Cupid Has Received Huge Toll. So there is the curious spectacle of a picturesque financier and ex-senator, once worth $20,000,000, flat broke; wife No. 3 rich with his money and about to sue him for divorce; wife No. 2 dying rich also with his money, and leaving it all to his daughter by wife No. 1.

Addicks, by the way, did a unique thing in American politics in regard to his daughter by wife No. 1. It is part of the secret history of Delaware that when he controlled the legislature and shortly after he was married to the present Mrs. Addicks he had passed a special act disinheriting the first daughter and making the two children of wife No. 3, who was a widow, his heirs-at-law.

Another thing not generally known is that Addicks' first two wives were sisters. No. 1 was Florence Butcher and No. 2 Rosalie Butcher, daughters of old Washington Butcher, millionaire packer and associate of the Amours and Cudahys in the early days. Wife No. 2 died and then the gas man married her sister.

Divorce Weapon Used. It was about five years ago that Mrs. Addicks No. 2 began divorce proceedings, naming the present Mrs. Addicks as corespondent, Frank K. Hipple, the suicide president of the Real Estate Trust company, who wrecked the concern, acted as a go-between, and Addicks paid $150,000 cash and much property to secure Mrs. Addicks No. 2's consent to withdraw all charges and file a new suit on the grounds of desertion. When this was accomplished he married Mrs. Addicks No. 3, who had been Mrs. Martha Wilson, wife of a former secretary of the Union league. "I don't want to talk about it," said Mrs. Addicks No. 3 today over the long distance phone. "I won't deny it, though. Shall I stay here at Lynnewood? Well, I'd like to see any one put me out."

The papers, it is said, already have been drawn up. They charge infidelity.

CHICKEN SKIN IS SUCCESSFULLY GRAFTED ON BOY

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 7.—Physicians at the city hospital are repairing Carl Dietus, a ten-year-old 4th of July victim, with chicken skins. The boy rammed 15 dynamite caps into the empty shell of a giant firecracker, holding the shell between his legs as he rammed the caps in.

The explosion broke windows in the house before which he stood, and at the hospital fragments of stockings and pants and handfuls of shattered tissue were taken from the wounds in the boy's thighs. The wounds are healing slowly, chicken skin being grafted to aid the growth of flesh where now there is none and the boy will recover.

STRANGLES INFANT

INSANE MOTHER BELIEVES SHE PUTS THEM TO SLEEP.

Brings Little Ones Back From Park Covered With Leaves and Twigs.

Baltimore, Aug. 7.—The atrocious murder of her two babies by an insane mother thrilled northeast Baltimore today. Madness which has twice caused her to be confined in an asylum again took possession of Mrs. Christina Nedenal, aged 26 years, the wife of Joseph Nedenal, a wood-worker employed in a wagon factory. With the cunning of a mind deranged she laid her plans to put her little ones to sleep—for that is what she believes she has done—and leaving her little daughter Mary, aged between 2 and 3 years, playing in the street, she put the younger of her children, a year and three months old, in its carriage and took it to a nearby park. Just what happened there is not known.

When the mother returned the little one in the carriage was covered with leaves and small branches, but a neighbor noticed that its face was strangely pale. Mrs. Nedenal took both children into the house and carefully closed all the doors and windows. A little later she went for a friend, Mrs. Victoria Vala, and asked her to come and assist in dressing the children.

Returning the two women entered the dining room of the Nedenal home and there, lying upon the table, Mrs. Vala was horrified to find the naked bodies of the two children, both having been strangled by their mother. The latter, when the police were summoned, fondled the little bodies and gave them up only when forced to do so.

Her one concern now seems to be lest the children be awakened. She repeatedly asks to have them brought to her so that she may guard them in their slumber.

As she sits in her cell at the police station, Mrs. Nedenal is being constantly watched lest she renew an attempt at self-destruction which she made some time ago. On that occasion she took her little daughter in her arms and was about to plunge into a stream when her husband restrained her. She has twice been confined in an asylum, once having been discharged as practically cured and the last time having been taken from the institution by her husband against the protests of the physicians in charge.

Renouncing your own sins is better preaching than denouncing the way of others.

Engineer Has Bloody Record of Forty Deaths Under His Locomotive

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 7.—Three men killed near Naperville, Ill., yesterday by a Chicago bound Burlington train, driven by Engineer George Abbott, of Aurora, were the latest of about 40 victims of the juggernaut driven by that engineer during his railroad career. Looking today along the 30 years of life with the steel monsters, Abbot saw a mangled corpse of two at what seemed to be short intervals. From a haunted, nerve-racked man, the engineer with so gruesome a record has developed by his own admission into a cold, unfeeling automaton, a part of the giant machine he handles.

At the Union station today Engineer Abbot told of the horrors he had experienced with killing little children, old men and women who cried so that he remembered it for days. He told of the gradual chilling of his faculties for receiving sensations of revulsion and remorse over the slaughter and declared that he no longer lay awake at night after killing a man and that he could gaze upon the blood-spattered front of his locomotive without a shudder. Abbot has driven his engine onto groups of men and killed five at a time, he says. He has seen a woman hurled high over the telegraph wires by the side of the track from the front of his engine; he has watched a little child-rolled along the ties by the pointed prow of the pilot for a hundred feet before she disappeared beneath the wheels of the engine on which he was riding.

"I have been probably the most unfortunate railroad man in the country," said Abbot, as he sat in the cab of his locomotive today. "I cannot remember the exact number of persons I have killed by the engines I have been running, but I think it is between 35 and 40."

Plenty of "Souvenirs."

A Matin correspondent says that while driving from Pacysur-Eure to Evreux his driver stopped, and, pointing to an elm, said:

"There is the fatal tree where the Faurs were killed."

The correspondent asked him why he stopped, and he replied:

"Every day I bring Americans here and others come in motors. Every one takes out a knife and carries off a morsel of the bark. As soon as the poor tree dies we will have to plant another for the Americans to cut the bark from as souvenirs." —New York Sun.

When we consider the trouble France and Spain have in Morocco, the difficulties of England in India, the riots in Korea and the troubles in the Russian empire, we flatter ourselves we handled matters very neatly in the Philippines.

John D. Archbold, managing head of the Standard Oil trust, says the report of the commissioner of corporations should have gone to the president and not the public. Mr. Archbold fears the public more than he does the government.

SUPT. CARNAGEY'S INAUGURAL.
We like the tone of Superintendent Carnagey's inaugural. It sounds very much like some things The Sun has said in the past. It chords with what The Sun will say in the future—the superintendent is elected to manage the schools. Stand by the superintendent and his discipline so long as he is superintendent. If he is not a good superintendent get rid of him at the end of his term; but while he is in authority, uphold him.

"My educational career," he says, "will not permit me to turn my back upon my convictions formed in the more than twenty years of educational work in some of the best school systems of a sister state. My professional attainments are the result of long years of study and development, and they are the assets of my life work. I cannot afford to go into any scheme, system or organization which would result in my educational and professional bankruptcy."

That has the ring of a man's voice, and we believe it is meant.
On the relations between the board and the superintendent, Professor Carnagey says:
"The school board is elected by the people to look after the interests of the schools. In carrying out the wishes of the people, the board must use the same business judgment that any other business or corporate organization exercises. In the first place, the board must finance the organization. In the second place, the board must secure a competent superintendent to manage the system. This superintendent, just as the superintendent of any large manufacturing concern, must be an expert in the thing for which he has been employed. Being such an expert, he must be given a free and unhampered hand in carrying out his policies and plans in order to secure the desired results."

"The school board must look after the business side of the school organization; they must provide the material equipment in the way of suitable buildings, furniture, apparatus, reference books and such like things. The superintendent should have complete control over the professional side of the school work. He should decide on the educational qualifications necessary for teachers; recommend the teachers to the board for employment; dismiss incompetent, inefficient and disloyal teachers; place teachers where they will do the most effective work; arrange courses of study, and, in fact, look after all those matters that have to do with getting the desired results."

The superintendent is not the creature of a school board, President Potter to the contrary, notwithstanding. He may be dismissed, just as any other public official may, by sustaining charges preferred against him; but we do not attribute the reiterated declaration of the president of the school board, that no contract with a superintendent or teacher is binding on the board, to intentional intimidation of the teaching force. We attribute it to something else.
As for Superintendent Carnagey's position. It is correct and unassailable. No other person in Paducah, excepting the principals and teachers, could possibly know of the qualifications of a teacher for a position in the public schools. Through no other possible means could discipline, an absolute essential in the public schools, be secured. Paducah has had enough of insubordination by connivance of school trustees, and The Sun hopes the trustees have had enough, too.

THE COUNTY ROADS.
While many people deplore the fact that no vote will be taken this fall on the road bond issue for the county, the agitation aroused by the fiscal court's action may not be without results, and the next time the matter is brought up, the people will be ready to receive it in the proper public spirit. The issue, of course, must be regular, and the court did well to heed the advice of the county attorney, advice not always followed; but we believe the sentiment ascertained by the committee, that inspected county roads, had much to do with the magistrate's ready acquiescence in Mr. Barkley's opinion. No doubt the report of the committee, concerning road work was right, and the Eighth district farmers have not contributed as liberally to the road improvement as others; yet the complaint from that section emphasizes the difficulty always encountered when public work is undertaken by a political body. Magistrates are bound, like other human beings, by certain ties of gratitude and obligation, and the ties would be drawn taut, if a bond issue of $100,000 were available for road work. It would be better far, if the fiscal court would make plans for a highways commission to take charge of any prospective bond issue, a commission so appointed and of such character, that no question could be raised. By removing every opportunity for political use of the funds, and in that way only, may the fiscal court induce the residents of the county to vote the bond issue.

ROAD REPAIRING IS RECOMMENDED

Committee of Fiscal Court Files its Reports

Levee Damage, Steep Hills, Narrow Roadway and Bad Bridges Are Reported to the Court.

CONDITIONS ARE EXCELLENT.

In filing its report with fiscal court yesterday, the county road inspection committee took occasion to remark on McCracken county roads in general.

"We find that McCracken county has more better improved roads than any county in the western end of Kentucky," stated the committee, "and we find a spirit of progress for more and better roads among farmers. In three districts we found property owners eager to give rights of way and work their teams free of charge to get road improvements. Repairs we deem necessary will require little money, and roads this year can be kept up with little expense."

Following is a complete list of suggestions made by the committee in its voluminous report:
The Joppa Landing road and road to Ballard county line for one and a half miles is cut by a creek running by its side which will necessitate the county's buying more right of way.

At the river on Carrioco road a dispute had arisen over the ends of the roads. There is an old and new road coming together, the new road being impassable and the old one closed by fences. The county has no record of ever opening either road.

On the Noble road, which cut the distance to Metropolis four miles, levee work is necessary, at an estimated expense of $3,000.

A bridge on Cunningham road is in bad shape and levee work is needed at an estimated cost of $300.

A levee on the Clinton road near Meibler was found below high water mark, and one bridge in bad shape. Committee recommends to replace wooden bridge with an iron one.

On the Blandville road one bad bridge was found; the creek had cut away one end of the levee and the road needs straightening, which will necessitate more right of way.

On Mayfield and Metropolis road crossings were found in bad shape. Omer Massac creek at this point levee work has to be done and more right of way procured.

On Hudson school house and Friendship roads to Whitlock road, the road is too narrow and the hills too steep.

A bridge on Oaks Station road near the city was found rotting and in bad shape.

Calvert City road near the Marshall county line needs 500 feet of levee work.

Said road needs 300 feet of levee work near Graves county line.

Husbands road needs one mile of leveling.

Oaks Station road near here was found flat and too low and badly in need of better draining.

HUG IN JOKE INJURES WIDOW.

Man Tries to Tease Wife, and Widow Thinks Breastbone Broken.

Cape Girardeau, Mo., Aug. 7.—Mrs. Mary Gode, a widow, living at the Hayes hotel, says she was hugged so violently by another guest, Charles Probst, that she was internally injured.

Probst is a Frisco railroad man and is married. He is known about the hotel as a jovial big fellow, fond of jokes.

His wife was present at the time of the hugging, and, to tease her, he says, he placed his arms around the widow, but thought that he was only squeezing her gently.

The widow said she believed her breast bone was broken.

THE EIGHTH

WILL BE DULY CELEBRATED IN PADUCAH TOMORROW.

Excursions From All Points of the Compass Will Bring in Colored Visitors.

Tomorrow, August the Eighth, is the colored man's Fourth of July, and preparations are being made for its observance. Space around Eleventh street and Broadway has been rented by moving picture shows and proprietors of lunch stands, and in many parts of the city lunch stands are going up with remarkable rapidity. There will be plenty of amusement for visitors, and the Illinois Central expects to haul between 8,000 and 10,000 into Paducah from nine different points. Ninety-eight cars will compose the nine special trains run into this city from early morning until afternoon. The N. C. & St. L. will also handle many excursionists.

The Illinois Central will employ many extra special agents to patrol the trains and keep order. They will all leave the trains at Paducah and assist Paducah police in keeping order. Chief of Police James Collins will work the entire force of policemen day and night. Those who work tonight will be kept on all day tomorrow. Chief Collins believes this will be sufficient to preserve perfect order.

Attractions for the colored visitors will be ball games and horse races. At the fair grounds there will be a match running race, dancing and many form of amusement. At Rowlandtown there will be dancing and at Wallace park a baseball game.

Something Better Than Success.

A gagaious, shrewd, acute man of the world is sometimes a mere nuisance; he has made his prosperous corner at the expense of others, and he has only contrived to accumulate behind a little fence of his own, what was meant to be the property of all. I have known a good many successful men, and I can not honestly say that I think that they are generally the better for their success. They have often learned self-confidence, the shadow of which is a good-natured contempt for ineffective people; the shadow, on the other hand, which falls on the contemplative man is an undue diffidence, an indolent depression, a tendency to think it does not very much matter what any one does. But, on the other hand, the contemplative man sometimes does grasp one very important fact—that we are sent into the world, most of us, to learn something about God and ourselves; whereas if we spend our lives in directing and commanding and consulting others, we get so swollen a sense of our own effectiveness, that we forget that we are tolerated rather than needed. It is better, on the whole, to tarry the Lord's leisure than to try impatiently to force the hand of God and to make amends for his apparent selfishness. What really makes a nation grow, and improve, and progress is not social legislation and organization. That is only the sign of the rising moral temperature; and a man who sets an example of soberness, and kindness, and contentment is better than a pragmatical district visitor with a taste for rating meek persons.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

Louisville Opens Campaign to Secure the Next Meeting.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 7.—In opening a vigorous campaign to secure the next Democratic national convention, Gov. J. C. W. Beckham, United States Senators James B. McCreary and Thomas H. Paynter, Mayor Robert W. Bingham, of Louisville, and all the members of Kentucky's delegation in the lower house of congress, both Democratic and Republican, today united in a joint letter to the members of the Democratic national committee, inviting and requesting them to hold the next Democratic national convention in Louisville.

It is pointed out that Louisville is midway between the north and the south, has the largest and best appointed auditorium hall in the United States and has ample hotel accommodations. All these officials join in extending a genuine, hearty, old-fashioned Kentucky invitation and promise to make the welcome to the Democrats of the nation the most whole-souled ever given.

MRS. FISHER'S TURN.
She Will Ignore Enemies Entertaining Royalty.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 7.—Mrs. Ogden Goetz and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt are to have no place in the festivities in honor of Crown Prince William of Sweden, who will arrive here August 22 for a stay of five days. Mrs. "Snuggly" Fish, for the first time on the occasion of a visit of a distinguished nobleman here, has command of the situation, and Mrs. Ogden Mills and Mrs. Edward J. Brewster have been let in a little bit. Cottagers, who naturally are much interested in the matter, cannot but view it in connection with the Fish-Harriman railroad controversy, and so they take it to be Mrs. Fish's first victory. As Cornelius Vanderbilt stood with Harriman, Mrs. Vanderbilt is not to have any part in entertaining the prince, and, as Mrs. Goetz is Mrs. Vanderbilt's sister, she also is with the outs.

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 7.—While his trial by naval court martial on charges of alleged scandalous conduct, destructive of good morals, and for falsehood was proceeding at the Norfolk navy yard today, Chaplain Harry W. Jones was indicted for grand larceny. A. S. J. Gammon, of the Citizens' bank of Norfolk presented three checks drawn on the Mechanics' National bank, Schermerhorn branch, New York, and signed, "Chaplain Jones," all having been returned protested and marked "not sufficient funds." HOT WEATHER SUGGESTIONS.
Every chance acquaintance, these hot days, can tell you what to do to keep well and cool, but the safest advice is keep close to Nature.
Nature says don't drink very much ice water—use the tempered water.
Don't eat heating dishes, warm meats, and heavy vegetables, but confine yourselves to light vegetables and fruits, and cold meats.
Nature, also says, and its injunction is in strong terms, to keep the system in good condition, the liver, bowels, stomach, kidneys and skin as every one contributes to health or ill health.
Osteopathy is Nature's treatment, and the most rational for all disease, especially the ailments incident to hot weather. Those weak, tired out and run-down conditions, dull headaches, disturbed bowel conditions, and torpid liver yield quickly to its application.
But, let me tell you any time, of people you know well, who will cheerfully tell you what Osteopathy has done and is doing for them. That is unprejudiced evidence and will appeal to you. Dr. G. B. Proage, 516 Broadway, upstairs, Phone 1407.

HIS POUND OF FLESH.

Hated Irish Landlord Appears Before Parliament.

London, Aug. 7.—After a long and uninteresting debate, in which the leaders of the opposition indicated their intention of amending the measure in committee, the evicted Irish tenants' bill passed its second reading in the house of lords today.

A dramatic incident of the debate was the appearance of Lord Clarendon, the most hated landlord in Ireland, who, with bent and shrunken frame, outstretched finger and in a fiery, now shrill, now husky with passion, voice, denounced the bill as the "apotheosis of robbery."

Every member of the house turned to watch the speaker, but his words were received in chill silence.

Another Thresher Dynamited.

Fifteen or twenty men composed the raiding party, and a number of shots were fired.

DECLARES HAU INNOCENT.
Witness Appears Who Claims to Have Seen Frau Molitor Killed.

Manheim, Aug. 7.—Another witness has come forward to declare that Karl Hau, the former professor at George Washington University, Washington, D. The name of this new witness is Karl Lindenau, and his statement has created more or less of a sensation.

He affirms that at the time of the murder last November he was walking behind Frau Molitor and her daughter. He saw the flash of a pistol and one of the women fell. He did not see the murderer, but says he could not possibly have been Hau.

BIG TOWBOAT SPRAGUE

Will Form Part of Flotilla to Escort President to Memphis.

St. Louis, Aug. 7.—The largest towboat on the inland waters of the United States will probably be sent to St. Louis next October as one of the boats in the river flotilla to welcome President Roosevelt when he visits this city October 2, on his way down the Mississippi to the deepwater ways convention at Memphis. This is the towboat Sprague, owned by the Monongahela Consolidated Coal and Coke company of Pittsburgh. The Sprague is in service on the Ohio and Lower Mississippi rivers between Pittsburgh and New Orleans. A photograph received today by Secretary W. F. Saunders of the Lakes to the Gulf Deep Water Way association shows the Sprague at Cairo, pushing a convoy of 46 coal barges.

Here's a Problem.

San Francisco, Aug. 7.—The case of the twenty-four Chinese, members of the crew of the German tramp steamer Tolosan, who deserted from that vessel last Friday, and have since been in charge of the federal authorities, has involved this government, Germany and China in a tangle that will have to be unraveled by the representatives of the three nations in Washington, to whom the matter has been referred.

When the Chinese were taken before United States Commissioner Heacourt, yesterday, on a charge of being illegally in this country, Owyang Kang, assistant Chinese consul, said that the men were willing to be deported and would waive their right of appeal if they were returned to China on some vessel other than the Tolosan, on which they had been cruelly treated.

The German consul asked that the prisoners be delivered to him to be placed in the custody of the captain of the Tolosan, in accordance with the immigration laws and treaties. This request Commissioner Heacourt denied and ordered the prisoners deported.

Santiago, Chile, Aug. 7.—An earthquake shock was felt yesterday at Valparaiso.

Trieste, Austria, Aug. 7.—The instruments in the marine observatory recorded heavy earth shocks, this morning about 2,500 miles distant. The beginning of the disturbance was registered at 7:52:28 o'clock, the maximum shock was reported at 8:08:51 and the movement ceased at 8:36:59.

SECRETARY WILSON.

Much Improved—Doctors Say He Must Keep Quiet.

Portland, Aug. 7.—Secretary of Agriculture Wilson's condition was so much improved today that he was able to receive a few friends. On account of his vitality his physicians have ordered him to keep quiet. If his health will permit, Wilson will leave for San Francisco today, but will have to abandon a large part of the work he had set for himself before starting on his journey.

Funeral Date Not Set.

It is unknown when the funeral of the late Miss Rebecca Allen will be held. The Misses Morton did not arrive this afternoon from their summer home at Flat Rock, N. C., as expected, but they will arrive this evening at 6:10 o'clock. Nothing has been heard from the body, but it is expected to arrive tomorrow morning. The funeral will be postponed until the arrival of Mr. Wesley Greenfield, an uncle from New Mexico, who has started for this city. Mr. Robert Greenfield, of Nashville, will attend the funeral and he is expected at any time.

EVERYONE BOOMING.

Plan for $100,000,000 Deep Water Way to the Gulf.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 7.—The plan for a $100,000,000 deep waterway from Chicago to the gulf is now being boomed by the officials of every town on the Illinois river, and drainage canal and the Mississippi river, according to Congressman William E. Lorimer, the father of the project.

"It hasn't reached the practical stage where success is assured," said the congressman today after a conference with Mayor Busse to prepare for the convention of the Deep Waterway association to be held at Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 4 and 5. "President Roosevelt has promised to attend this convention, and it is said he is favorable to the project. In addition, the governors of different states and mayors of the cities along the proposed waterway will be present, together with thousands of delegates from commercial and other associations."

On Wednesday Mayor Busse will appoint a commission of fifty Chicago residents to represent the city's interests at the convention. Today the mayor received a letter from Wm. Kavanaugh, president of the Deep Waterway association, asking him to attend the convention and to appoint the Chicago commission. The representatives will be selected at a meeting in the mayor's office at 1 o'clock tomorrow.

Congressman Lorimer believes that a 14-foot channel will answer all practical purposes for vessels of 6,000 tons. Although the cost is about $75,000,000, congress will be asked to make the appropriation $100,000,000 to cover all contingencies.

People Fall in Cattle Guards.

Four people walked into the cattle guard at Wallace park last night. Frank Jones, a colored barber, was the first and he was bruised on the head, his left ankle sprained, and bruised on other parts of the body. A woman that refused to give her name soon afterward walked into the cattle guard, and was pulled out badly bruised, although no bones were broken. Two others fell into the guard but they were not bruised so badly.

Some Wonderful New Things in Science, Medicine and Surgery

In the realm of medicine, and especially surgery, science is performing daily miracles with an ease that is almost ridiculous.

The readers of these pages will remember that some time ago a Philadelphia woman was practically raised from the dead by pumping the blood of her husband's arteries into her empty veins.

Amazed as surgeons were, the world over, they soon forgot it in wonder at other achievements.

Dr. J. M. T. Finney, at Baltimore, Md., made a very presentable nose for a little girl out of her finger. A baseball player, who also had lost his nose; heard of the operation and got Dr. Finney to make him an organ of smell out of a digit of his left hand.

In this feat the surgeon made a curious mistake; he overlooked a tiny piece of finger nail. When the wounds had healed and the bandages were removed from the patient's face a tiny shred of nail was found growing between his eyebrows. Every few weeks this bit of nail becomes long enough to be a nuisance and is cut just like an ordinary nail.

Dr. Zirin, of Vienna, transferred the cornea from the eye of a boy to that of a blind old man, with the result that the old man now sees quite well.

It was no hardship to the boy as he had already lost the sight of his eye. A steel splinter driven deep into the eye of the unfortunate boy had made it necessary to remove the entire organ.

Yet Dr. Zirin thought it too bad to waste the lad's cornea, the only part of the eye which was uninjured. So he sent for an incurable patient whom he had treated for a long time. The patient, an old man, was stone blind. The cornea of his eyes was filled with the white matter of a cataract in such a way that it could not be scraped away.

The cornea is the brilliant transparent part of the eye-ball through which we see. This part—as as white and opaque as the rest of the eye.

Placing the old man and the boy side by side on the operating table for a little girl out of her finger. A baseball player, who also had lost his nose; heard of the operation and got Dr. Finney to make him an organ of smell out of a digit of his left hand.

The old man, still blind in one eye, is able to read newspaper print through his new cornea. Before long Dr. Zirin will remove the other opaque cornea and in its place affix the cornea of a Belgian hare.

It may be said that surgeons have gotten the habit of borrowing what ever is broken down in one patient from another, just as a bicycle repairer will take a part from one machine to replace what is broken in another.

Professor Garre described the case of a four-year-old boy suffering from cretinism who was benefited by the transplantation of a portion of the thyroid gland from his mother. The child, after nine months, is developing mentally and can walk and talk. The transplantation of the thyroid gland is simple, owing to the fact that a portion of the gland may always be safely removed from a living person.

Successful experiments in the transplantation of blood vessels from one animal to another were narrated by Professor Garre. He succeeded in removing vessels two and one-half inches long from a live man and transplanting them. He also transplanted blood vessels from animals that had been dead for an hour and a half to live animals.

Most remarkable of all in its far-reaching possibilities is the discovery of "opsonins" and the opsonic method of treatment by Sir Almroth E. Wright of London. For many years it has been generally known that the white corpuscles in the blood are destroyed by germs.

But sometimes they eat the germs greedily and sometimes they refuse. The cause of this frequent loss of appetite on the part of the corpuscles which means sickness and perhaps death for the person in whose veins they live, was a mystery.

Dr. Wright with infinite pains washed specimens of living germs and living corpuscles and experimented. He found that no corpuscles would eat a freshly washed germ, but if the germ be dipped in blood of a healthy person the corpuscle will eat it.

Further research revealed the fact that the cells of the body give off certain little things called "opsonins," which gather round any germs that happen to be in the blood. When a germ is plentifully garnished with these opsonins the corpuscles are only too glad to devour it.

By injecting dead germs into the body Dr. Wright induces the cells to give off an extra supply of opsonins, enough to garnish the dead germs he has injected and any other live ones that there may be. The white corpuscles then very rapidly clear the system of microbes and the patient is cured.

Boils, acne and tuberculosis in certain forms yield readily to this treatment and it is expected that nearly every known disease will be cured in this way.—New York Press.

The Limit of Life.

The most eminent medical scientists are unanimous in the conclusion that the generally accepted limitation of human life is many years below the attainment possible with the advanced knowledge of which the race is now possessed. The critical period, that determines its duration, seems to be between 50 and 60; the proper care of the body during this decade cannot be too strongly urged; carelessness then being fatal to longevity. GEESSE GET ON A JAG AND LOSE ALL THEIR FEATHERS

Winona, Minn., Aug. 7.—A story is being told as having taken place across the river from here not far from Chippewa Falls. It concerns a farmer and a flock of geese. To prevent a jug of whiskey from breaking while being transported over rough places, he had placed it in a sack of peas. The cork came out, and when the farmer reached home he found that the whiskey had been absorbed by the peas. He threw the peas out in the yard, where unknown to the household, the geese ate them. In the morning the geese lay stark and cold. The wife, thrifty woman, did not cry over spilled milk, but proceeded to save what she could from the wreck, and she plucked the geese before throwing the supposed carcasses away. The fowls lay there all day until late in the afternoon familiar call, and, looking out, she was amazed to see the flock of birds solemnly parading around the yard.

Beer Flowed in the Streets.

Bloomington, Ind., Aug. 7.—The citizens of this place gathered along the sidewalks the other day to watch beer flow in great streams.

Nine barrels of the beverage were emptied into the street by Sheriff Ratliff. Interested spectators gathered and made pertinent comments as the foaming mass floated along the curb stones.

Some days ago the sheriff heard that an Italian at Smithville was running a blind tiger. The sheriff made an investigation, arrested the Italian and confiscated the beer. Then he hauled the beverage into this city, five miles from Smithville.

The beer, however, became a burden on his hands. He didn't want to drink it, nor did he want anyone else to drink it. In fact he did not know what to do with it. Finally he hit upon the plan of emptying it in the street. The Italian was given a fine of $30.

"Everybody Should Know"

says C. G. Hays, a prominent business man of Bluff, Mo., that Bucklen's Arnica Salve is "the quickest and surest healing salve ever applied to a sore, burn or wound, or to a case of piles. I've used it and know what I'm talking about." Guaranteed by all druggists.

GOVERNMENT HAS BEEN USING ROAD

To Show Up Guilt of Standard and Other Trusts

Some Officials Deplore Action of Judge Landis in Going After Alton Railroad.

LESSON OF NEW YORK CENTRAL.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—Determined as the government is to prosecute the Standard Oil company to the full limit of the law, it has no such designs upon the railroads which give the rebates to the trust.

In directing District Attorney Sims to impanel a special grand jury to indict the Chicago and Alton, Judge Landis has taken a step the administration is disposed to regret. As attitude is due to the fact that it was thought the railroads that the evidence was obtained which enabled the prosecution of the Standard Oil company on such a large number of counts. In addition, the investigation made by the bureau of corporations established the fact that the Standard Oil company acted the part of a high wayman toward the railroads, just as it did toward the people. It forced them to grant rebates by declaring they would get no business if the regular tariff were applied, and that their competitors would be given all shipments, so that they would suffer in consequence.

Sims Likely to Go Slow.

District Attorney Sims has been informed of the view of the authorities here, and it is not expected he will proceed against the Chicago and Alton and other roads involved in the counts yet to be disposed of with the same grim earnestness he displayed in his attack upon the oil corporation. Of course, the government had no control over Judge Landis in this matter, but if it had had, there is little doubt it would have advised against prosecution of the railroads.

This does not mean that any sympathy is entertained here for rebating. But the moral effect of the tremendous fine imposed upon the Standard Oil company is such that the practice is believed to be finished forever, unless the government later on should relax its vigilance.

Some months ago the railroads were given a hint of what might happen to them when the New York Central was convicted of granting one rebate to the Standard and was fined $15,000, which is $5,000 less than the maximum penalty. The prosecution of the New York Central was brought because that road declined to furnish the bureau of corporations with any information whatever in regard to its relations with the oil octopus.

Would Cost Alton Dear.

In the case of the Chicago and Alton and all other railroads which have had dealings with the Standard it is highly probable if the cases are brought into court that the government will suggest the imposition of the minimum rather than the maximum fines. But even this would be a tremendous penalty. It is estimated it would aggregate $75,989,000. If the Standard should be convicted on all counts pending against it and the maximum fine imposed on each count it will have to pay a total of $151,960,000. This, with the railroad fines, will mean an aggregate of $227,960,000 which the government will collect as a result of the prosecutions.

In considering the justice of the action of Judge Landis in imposing the maximum fine upon the Standard Oil company attention may be called to the fact that the question involved is not so much that of the quantity

If You Read This

It will be to learn that the leading medical writers and teachers of all the several schools of practice recommend, in the strongest terms possible, each and every ingredient entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the cure of weak stomach, dyspepsia, catarrh of stomach, "liver complaint," torpid liver, or biliousness, chronic bowel affections and all catarrhal diseases of whatever region, name or nature. It is also a specific remedy for all such chronic or long standing cases of catarrhal affections and their results, as bronchitis, throat and lung disease (except consumption) accompanied with severe coughs. It is so good for acute colds and coughs, but for lingering or chronic cases it is especially efficacious in producing perfect cures. It contains Black Cherry bark, Golden Seal root, Bloodroot, Stone root, Mandrake root and Queen's root—all of which are highly praised as remedies for all the above mentioned affections by such eminent medical writers and teachers as Prof. Bartholow, of Jefferson Medical College, Prof. Hare, of the University of Pennsylvania, Prof. Finkley, of the University of Michigan, Prof. Bennett, of the University of Chicago, Prof. King, of the University of Cincinnati, Prof. John M. Scudder, of the University of Illinois, Prof. Edwin M. Felt, of the University of Wisconsin, Prof. C. C. Felt, of the University of Wisconsin, and scores of other equally eminent in their several schools of practice.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is the only medicine put up for sale through druggists for like purposes that has any medicinal value. It is a pure, natural, and sure remedy for all the above mentioned affections. Open publicity of its formula is the best possible guaranty of its merits. A glance at this published formula will show that "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no poisons, harmful or habit-forming drugs and no alcohol—chemicals, pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead. Glycerine is entirely unobjectionable and besides is a most useful agent in the cure of all stomach as well as bronchial, throat and lung affections. There is the highest medical authority in the use of all such cases. The "Discovery" is a concentrated glyceric extract of native medicinal roots and is safe and reliable. A booklet of Dr. R. V. Pierce's medical authorities, endorsing its ingredients mailed free on request. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Still reading, he re-entered the cab, and returned to the theater with his mission unaccomplished.

THE LION AND THE MOUSE.

By CHARLES KLEIN.

A Story of American Life Novelized From the Play by ARTHUR HORNBLLOW.

COPYRIGHT, 1906, BY G. W. DILLINGHAM COMPANY.

Both relapsed into another long silence, each mentally reviewing the past and speculating on the future. Suddenly Mrs. Rossmore started. Surely she could not be mistaken! No, the clapping of a locomotive bell was plainly audible. The train was in. From the direction of the station came people with parcels and hand bags and presently there was heard the welcome sound of carriage wheels crunching over the stones. A moment later they saw coming round the bend in the road a cab piled up with small baggage.

"Here they are! Here they are!" cried Mrs. Rossmore. "Come, Endoxia!" she called to the servant, while she herself hurried down to the gate. The judge, fully as agitated as herself, only showing his emotion in a different way, remained on the porch, pale and anxious.

The cab stopped at the curb, and Stott alighted, first helping out Mrs.

Blake, Mrs. Rossmore's astonishment on seeing her sister was almost comical.

"Milly!" she exclaimed. They embraced first and explained afterward. Then Shirley got out and was in her mother's arms.

"Where's father?" was Shirley's first question.

"There—he's coming!"

The judge, unable to restrain his impatience longer, ran down from the porch toward the gate. Shirley, with a cry of mingled grief and joy, precipitated herself on his breast.

"Father, father," she cried between her sobs, "what have they done to you?"

"There, there, my child! Everything will be well—everything will be well!" Her head lay on his shoulder, and he stroked her hair with his hand, unable to speak from pent up emotion.

Mrs. Rossmore could not recover from her stupefaction on seeing her sister. Mrs. Blake explained that she had come chiefly for the benefit of the voyage and announced her intention of returning on the same steamer.

"So, you see, I shall bother you only a few days," she said.

"You'll stay just as long as you wish," rejoined Mrs. Rossmore. "Happily we have just one bedroom left."

Then, turning to Endoxia, who was wrestling with the baggage, which furnished a miniature Matterhorn on the sidewalk, she gave instructions:

"Endoxia, you'll take this lady's baggage to the small bedroom adjoining Miss Shirley's. She is going to stop with us for a few days."

Taken completely aback at the news of this new addition, Endoxia looked at first dazed. She seemed on the point of handing in her resignation there and then. But evidently she thought better of it, for, taking a cue from Mrs. Rossmore, she asked in the sarcastic manner of her mistress:

"Four is it now, m'm? I suppose the constitution of the United States allows a family to be as big as one likes to make it. It's hard on us girls, but if it's the law, it's all right, m'm. The more the merrier!" With which broadside she lunged the bags all over herself and staggered off to the house.

Stott explained that the larger pieces and the trunks would come later by express. Mrs. Rossmore took him aside while Mrs. Blake joined Shirley and the judge.

"Did you tell Shirley?" asked Mrs. Rossmore. "How did she take it?"

"She knows everything," answered Stott, "and takes it very sensibly. We shall find her of great moral assistance in our coming fight in the senate!" he added confidently.

Realizing that the judge would like to be left alone with Shirley, Mrs. Rossmore invited Mrs. Blake to go upstairs and see the room she would have, while Stott said he would be glad of a washup. When they had gone Shirley sat up to her father in her old familiar way.

"I've just been longing to see you, father," she said. She turned to get a good look at him, and, noticing the lines of care which had deepened during her absence, she cried: "Why, how you've changed! I can scarcely believe it's you. Say something. Let me hear the sound of your voice, father."

The judge tried to smile.

"Why, my dear girl, I—"

Shirley threw her arms round his neck.

"Ah, yes, now I know it's you," she cried.

"Of course it is, Shirley, my dear girl. Of course it is. Who else would it be?"

"Yes, but it isn't the same," insisted Shirley. "There is no ring to your voice. It sounds hollow and empty, like an echo. And this place," she added dolefully, "this awful place!"

"She glanced around at the cracked ceilings, the cheaply papered walls, the shabby furniture, and her heart sank as she realized the extent of their misfortune. She had come back prepared for the worst, to help with the fight for her father's honor, but to have to struggle against sordid poverty as well, to endure that humiliation in addition to disgrace—ah, that was something she had not anticipated! She changed color, and her voice faltered. Her father had been closely watching for just such signs, and he read her thoughts.

"It's the best we can afford, Shirley," he said quietly. "The blow has been complete. I will tell you everything. You shall judge for yourself. My enemies have done for me at last."

"Your enemies?" cried Shirley eagerly. "Tell me who they are so I may go to them."

"Yes, dear, you shall know everything, but not now. You are tired after your journey. Tomorrow sometime I'll tell you and I will explain everything."

"Very well, father, as you wish," said Shirley gently. "After all," she added in an effort to appear cheerful, "what matter where we live so long as we have each other?"

She drew away to hide her tears and left the room on pretense of inspecting the house. She looked into the dining room and kitchen and opened the cupboards, and when she returned there were no visible signs of trouble in her face.

"It's a cute little house, isn't it?" she said. "I've always wanted a little place like this all to ourselves. Oh, if you only knew how tired I am of New York and its great ugly houses, its retinue of servants and its domestic and social responsibilities! We shall be able to live for ourselves now, eh, father?"

She spoke with a forced gaiety that might have deceived any one but the judge. He understood the motive of her sudden change in manner, and silently he blessed her for making his burden lighter.

"Yes, dear, it's not bad," he said. "There's not much room, though."

"Let me see." She began to count on her fingers. "Upstairs, three rooms, eh, and above that three more?"

"No," smiled the judge; "then comes the roof."

"Of course," she laughed; "how stupid of me—a nice gaub roof, a sloping roof that the rain runs off beautifully. Oh, I can see that this is going to be awfully jolly—just like camping out. You know how I love camping out. And you have a piano too?"

She went over to the corner where stood one of those homely instruments which hardly deserve to be dignified by the name piano, with a cheap, gaudily painted case outside and a thin pan effect inside, and which are usually to be found in the poorer class of country boarding houses. Shirley sat down and ran her fingers over the keys, determined to like everything.

"It's a little old," was her comment, "but I like these zither effects. It's just like the sixteenth century spinet. I can see you and mother dancing a stately minuet, who smiled.

"What's that about mother dancing?" demanded Mrs. Rossmore, who at that instant entered the room. Shirley arose and appealed to her:

"Isn't it absurd, mother, when you come to think of it, that anybody should accuse father of being corrupt and of having forfeited the right to be judge? Isn't it still more absurd that we should be helpless and dejected and unhappy because we are on Long Island instead of Madison avenue? Why should Manhattan Island be a happier spot than Long Island? Why shouldn't we be happy anywhere? We have each other, and we do need each other. We never knew how much till today, did we? We must stand by each other now. Father is going to clear his name of this preposterous charge, and we're going to help him, aren't we, mother? We're not helpless just because we are women. We're going to work, mother and I!"

"Work?" echoed Mrs. Rossmore, somewhat scandalized.

"Work," repeated Shirley very decisively.

The judge interfered. He would not hear of it.

"You work, Shirley? Impossible!"

"Why not? My book has been selling well while I was abroad. I shall probably write others. Then I shall write, too, for the newspapers and magazines. It will add to our income."

"Your book, 'The American Octopus,' is selling well?" inquired the judge, interested.

"So well," replied Shirley, "that the publishers wrote me in Paris that the fourth edition was now on the press. That means good royalties. I shall soon be a fashionable author. The publishers will be after me for more books, and we'll have all the money we want. Oh, it is so delightful, this novel sensation of a literary success!" she exclaimed with glee. "Aren't you proud of me, dad?"

The judge smiled indulgently. Of course he was glad and proud. He always knew his Shirley was a clever girl. But by what strange fatality, he thought to himself, had his daughter in this book of hers assailed the very man who had encompassed his own ruin? It seemed like the retribution of heaven. Neither his daughter nor the financier was conscious of the fact that each was indirectly connected with the impeachment proceedings. Ryder could not dream that "Shirley Green," the author of the book which flayed him so mercilessly, was the daughter of the man he was trying to crush. Shirley, on the other hand, was still unaware of the fact that it was Ryder who had lured her father to his ruin.

When at last she could look herself in her room where no eye could see her, Shirley threw herself down on the bed and burst into a torrent of tears. She had kept up appearances as long as it was possible, but now the reaction had set in. She gave way freely to her pent up feelings; she felt that unless she could relieve herself in this way her heart would break. She had been brave until now, she had been strong to bear everything and see everything, but she could not keep it up forever. Stott's words to her on the dock had in part prepared her for the worst; he had told her what to expect at home, but the realization was so much more vivid. Then to have come to this all in the brief space of a few months! It was incredible, terrible, heart rending! And what of the future? What was to be done to save her father from this impeachment which she knew well would hurry him to his grave? He could not survive that humiliation, that degradation. He must be saved in the senate, but how—how?

She dried her eyes and began to think. Surely her woman's wit would find some way. She thought of Jefferson. Would he come to Massapequa? It was hardly probable. He would certainly learn of the change in her circumstances, and his sense of delicacy would naturally keep him away for some time even if other considerations less unselfish did not. Perhaps he would be attracted to some other girl he would like as well and who was not burdened with a tragedy in her family. Her tears began to flow afresh until she hated herself for being so weak while there was work to be done to save her father. She loved Jefferson. Yes, she had never felt so sure of it as now. She felt that if she had him there at that moment she would throw herself in his arms, crying: "Take me, Jefferson—take me away—where you will—for I love you! I love you!" But Jefferson was not there, and the rickety chairs in the tiny bedroom and the cheap prints on the walls seemed to gibe at her in her misery.

Suddenly she thought of Jefferson's promise to interest his father in her case, and she clutched at the hope this promise held out as a drowning man clutches at a drifting straw. Jefferson would not forget his promise, and he would come to Massapequa to tell her of what he had done. She was sure of that. Perhaps, after all, there was where her hope lay. Why had she not told her father at once? It might have relieved his mind. John Burkett Ryder, the Colossus, the man of unlimited power! He could save her father, and he would. And the more she thought about it the more cheerful and more hopeful she became, and she started to dress quickly, so that she might hurry down to tell her father the good news. She was actually sorry now that she had said so many hard things of Mr. Ryder in her book, and she was worrying over the thought that her father's case might be serious, and she was ever revealed, when there came a knock at her door. It was Endoxia.

"Please, miss, will you come down to lunch?"

BOARD ON RECORD AGAINST SALARY

Professor Lieb's Claim Rejected by School Trustees

President Potter Said He Voted the Salary Before He Knew the Facts.

FINANCE COMMITTEE ALLOWS

By a vote of seven to two the school board at the regular meeting last night refused to stand by its proposal at the June meeting to pay Professor Lieb until September 1, and grant him a vacation from the time he handed in his report.

Trustee Karnes read the bill calling for one month's salary, $166.67, and it had been marked "O. K." by Trustees Clements and Karnes, "of the finance committee. This was too much for President Potter and he left the chair. In his remarks Colonel Potter said he was opposed to paying out the people's money when service had not been given, and yet Colonel Potter asserted there was no contract. Colonel Potter had dug up in the charter a rule that by a vote of eight members the superintendent or any teacher could be removed.

Trustee Kelly was able to give President Potter the information that when the superintendent or any teacher had violated the contract or broken the rules, by a vote of eight members, the person could be removed. But President Potter could not see any other way than that the school board could ignore the contract.

Trustee Karnes said the contract should be followed out, and as there was no any hole to get out.

In a short talk Trustee Kelly said it was a legal contract, and binding, and the board would have to abide by it. In addition to the legal obligation there is a moral obligation. Excepting President Potter, who evades the responsibility of his voting to grant the salary at the regular meeting that it was his second meeting, and he did not know the circumstances when he voted. Trustee Kelly pointed out that there were eight members present last night that were present at the June meeting, and who voted to allow the salary, and they were old members. The board agreed voluntarily to give Professor Lieb the vacation.

Secretary Byrd took occasion to remark that the contract had never been ratified by the old school board as shown by the minutes, and the salary was not set. "It ain't worth a cent," he concluded.

Trustee Beckenbach, who made the motion at the June meeting, was silent and had nothing to remark on the discussion, contrary to his custom.

On roll-call, the following voted to allow the salary: Karnes and Kelly, and those voting "nay" were: Potter, Beckenbach, Byrd, Davis, Maxwell, Metcalf, Mammen.

This action of the board puts it on record as refusing to pay the claim of Professor Lieb, who, it is understood, will enter suit against the board. Previously the resolution of June, granting him the August salary and a vacation stood, and the board merely passed his salary to August 1, declining to take up the question of a voucher for the August salary; but when Professor Lieb presented his bill and it was allowed by the finance committee, the board was compelled to go on record.

Plan to Cultivate Bamboo in South is Proposed---Difficult to Get Seed

Vast areas of land in Louisiana and Mississippi, comprising many thousand acres, given over mainly to canebrakes and snakes, may some day within a decade be put to a good and profitable use if the ideas of David Fairchild, explorer, in charge of seed and plant introduction of the agricultural department, are found feasible, and congress will appropriate sufficient money to carry on experiments in bamboo raising. The bamboo industry ought to be encouraged and be made highly remunerative in the United States, and Mr. Fairchild, who has been giving the subject much thought for several years, is ready to spend the $2,000 allowed by congress in conducting experiments in growing plants that are indigenous of Japan. Where these experiments will be made will depend upon the people of the south who have lands suited to the purpose.

Mr. Fairchild, in conversation with the layman correspondent, stated that the agricultural department is now negotiating with an experienced lumberman who is at present in Shanghai, and hopes to engage him to go to Japan, get three thousand bamboo plants and superintend the transplanting of them in one or more nurseries yet to be selected in the south.

Bamboo Seed Scarce.

Mr. Fairchild hoped to get seed to start the first American crop, but it seems that bamboo seed is a scarce article on the market, and the trial will have to be made with plants, which cost about 20 cents each. Under the most favorable conditions a year must elapse before much can be done with the plants in the United States. After they have been selected they will have to be set out in rows, in Japan, and kept under observation for some time. After shipment to Washington they will need a rest before transplanting in the nursery that must be made ready to receive them.

Mr. Fairchild, who three years ago prepared a bulletin on bamboo raising, which the agricultural department published, said today that time for speculating is past, and active operations should begin, for he is thoroughly convinced, after personally visiting the canebrakes in the cotton states, that conditions are highly favorable for raising a more profitable crop.

Matures in Four Years.

Bamboo requires rich alluvial soil, which must not be subject to flooding, though an occasional overflow will not kill it. If it takes to the southern soil it will send its roots in all directions and mature in about four years.

In Japan the growing of bamboo is an important industry. The plant is generally four or five inches in diameter and hollow. Its wall is nearly an inch thick. It may be used as lumber after having been split and flattened, for building, and in making articles of furniture, screens, barrels and even paper. As it can be grown upon land that has but little value, and the cost of labor in raising it is small, an acre has been made to yield from $50 to $80.

STREET CARS

WILL BE BUSY ALL DAY OUT BROADWAY TOMORROW.

Three Extensions of Traction System Under Way Or Being Contemplated as Certainties.

Colored managers of the celebration on August 8 here are negotiating with the Moscow company, to give a performance Thursday night at the fair grounds, where a big day is being planned for the colored people. Every car on the traction company's lines have been overhauled and inspected in the shops on Broadway. Expecting a record crowd, Manager Bleeker is having the rolling stock put into shape for use all day with heavy traffic. Not a single car will be left in the barns tomorrow. Advice is that Paducah will have the largest out-of-town attendance in the history of the celebrations here, and the usual admirable order is expected.

Extensions.

Worten's addition residents, after a weary wait, will be riding into the city on street cars passing their doors, within 30 days, if no unusual set-back occurs. Tracks are being laid on Broadway from Fountain avenue to Nineteenth street, where the line will turn and go to Guthrie avenue. Along Guthrie avenue the line will run to the Mayfield road.

The Gregory Heights line is all ready for operation, whenever the promoters of the residence addition announce the opening day of the sale of lots. This will be in the next week or two.

SUPERVISOR HAS AN EXPLANATION

Says He Let Road Contracts to Best Known Bidders

Graves County Farmers' Club Questions Him and Elicits Information About Roads.

MEETING OF THE TEACHERS.

Mayfield, Ky., Aug. 7.—At the Farmers' club meeting in the court house Col. John Daughaday spoke in the interest of the organization and not only favored the filing of the injunction but urged them to do so at once, says the Messenger.

Jack Dawson of Pottsville, tendered his resignation as a member of the committee.

Dr. A. A. Hurt was in favor of the injunction suit and so made a motion regarding the employment of an attorney.

The committee reported that $13.35 was collected.

Esq. T. C. Pinson, the road supervisor of Graves county, said: "The roads of Graves county which will reach 1,200 or more miles have been so badly washed that 25 cents on the dollar recently levied for road purposes is not sufficient to pay for the road work. It will take the tax money and work of the hands to keep up the roads and I am in favor of putting the road hands back to work. I have worked hard and diligent to make an officer of whom you would have cause to be proud."

Mr. Pinson informed the audience that he was ready to answer all questions that were propounded to him regarding the road question and then he was asked why he gave contracts to the highest bidders instead of the lowest. Mr. Pinson, in district No. 2, said that he gave the contract to a bidder at $12.50 a day over a bidder at $12.40 a day because he thought he was the best man capable in every way to do the work and his interpretation of the law as the lowest and best bidder was let on those reasons of being the "best" bidder. Besides he said that he thought the prices were reasonable and so let the contract.

Regarding the Fifth district bid in which the contract was awarded for $14.00 in preference to a bid of $11.75 for the same kind of work, Mr. Pinson gave the same kind of explanation as on the other contract named. He said he knew that Mr. Jeffrey had good teams and was sufficiently acquainted with the work to do a good job and therefore he gave the job to him and had no regrets to make.

They employed Attorneys Speight & Dean and Stanfield Brothers to take charge of the case and file the injunction suit.

KUTTAWA PLEASD WITH I. C. PICNIC

Committee Returns Satisfied With Reception

Partial Program Arranged and Prizes Will Be Solicited From City Merchants.

NEWS OF THE RAILROADS.

With more courtesies than expected, the arrangement committee, composed of Messrs. Clarence Ellithorpe, Fred Flanagan and Virge G. Berry, returned from Kuttawa last night to report to Illinois Central shop employees the result of their trip. They were sent up to select a site and make other preliminaries for the annual picnic.

When Illinois Central employees gave a picnic at Kuttawa before, no fishing was allowed in the lake, because it had just been stocked with 10,000 black bass, but fishing privileges and boats are extended to all this season. Residents of Kuttawa were glad that the committee selected Kuttawa as the place for holding the outing, and offered everything possible. Lumber was ordered from a Kuttawa concern and union carpenters employed to erect at 32x40 dancing pavilion.

This afternoon late a meeting will be held and more committees appointed. There will be committees on reception, entertainment, music and finance, and also one to solicit prizes for contests. Paducah merchants will be asked to give something, and it is expected some nice prizes will be offered. While the program has not been definitely mapped out, the following will be a few features of the annual outing:

Band concerts.
Dancing.
Fishing.
Baseball.
Running, jumping sack, potato races, etc.

Cake walk contest, waltzing contest, etc.

Balloon ascension by William Shannon, of Mobile, Ala.

Orderlies of the day will be Messrs. Fred Flanagan, Dan Hubert and Adam Welkert. Clarence Ellithorpe will be named chairman of the reception committee.

Railroad Notes.

A copperhead snake thirty inches long was killed by "Parson" Davidson, colored, on the north side of the Illinois Central planing mill yesterday afternoon late. The reptile had crawled out from under the floor and was sunning itself.

Mr. G. H. Braze, superintendent of telegraph of the Illinois Central, was in Paducah last night on business, and left this morning for the Louisville division accompanied by Trainmaster A. F. Page.

Mrs. L. Croal will return today from the Jewemtown exposition.

This morning Illinois Central shop yards were blocked by several long trains from the south, and the south bound local did not leave until after 8 o'clock. The congested condition is being speedily remedied and the situation is well in hand.

Engineer A. E. Arnold, of the Fulton yards, as a result his engine cab was torn away on one side but he managed to jump away before the crash came. Arnold's engine was struck by a cut of cars. His engine, N. 790, was not disabled, and brought the train into Paducah this morning a section of freight No. 182.

The N. C. & St. L. pile driver began the work this morning of driving piling for a bridge across Island creek. The bridge is to span the mouth of the creek.

TRY A SUN WANT AD

Very few people appreciate the great value of the small want ads in the newspapers : : :

Some of the Things The Sun's Have Done

Very few of the people, when reading the want ads, which probably 85 per cent of the readers do, ever realize just what splendid opportunities a three or four line notice will do.

A few days ago a reader of The Sun, who had just installed himself in a flat, purchased new furniture for the entire establishment, had to leave the city, due to a change in his business. "What shall I do with this outfit," he thought. Then he remembered the Sun want ads, put four lines in for a few days and sold all the furniture, at splendid prices, in a few days.

This is but one of the many incidents of a similar nature.

You may not have an outfit of furniture to sell, but you may have something around the house some one may want—an old carpet, or range, some musical instrument, or bit of furniture. A want ad. is a fascinating thing, for nearly every one reads them.

Try a want ad. for yourself, and test its merits. The cost is one cent a word for one insertion or three cents a word for a week, cash with order.

TENTH YEAR OF DINGLEY LAW

Collections During Decade Amounted to $2,527,698,826.

Washington, Aug. 7.—July 24th was the tenth anniversary of the enactment of the Dingley tariff law. The collections of customs duties under the Dingley law in the decade have amounted to $2,527,698,826, these figures including all except the collections made in the last seven days of July, 1917, of which no separate record was kept.

The largest revenue results of the Dingley law were realized in the fiscal year closed on June 30 last, when the collections amounted to more than $333,000,000, or more than a million dollars a day for every business day of the year. The value of manufactured products in the United States, some of which have been protected under the Dingley law, has increased to a larger extent even than the customs collections. In the five years from 1911 to 1915 the customs receipts were $1,300,583,247, but the gain in value of manufactured products was in the same years $1,787,859,589. The total value of manufactures in 1915 was nearly $15,000,000,000. Should the Dingley law remain in force unamended until the spring of 1919 the total collections of revenue under its provisions will probably exceed $3,000,000,000.

"Hon." To Take a Back Seat.

Until a better day comes, then, it is perhaps just as well that old-fashioned "Hon." go away back and sit down. It used to mean something; now, like the "Dear Sir" at the beginning of a letter, it is a polite fiction, and it isn't even good taste to use it any more. It was not always thus, and thus it shall not always remain. For the present, "it doesn't go," the Gazette says. As a matter of fact, it does "go," but it will return again.—Washington, D. C. WOMAN'S SKIRT SAVES YACHT FROM SINKING

Bridgeport, Conn., Aug. 7.—After being adrift on Long Island Sound for two days and nights, without food or water, forced to labor for a great portion of the time to bale out their yacht to prevent it from sinking, 11 young people, members of most prominent families, were towed into port in their damaged boat, half dead.

John Lavender, owner of the boat, took the party for a sail to Black Rock Harbor. As the trip only takes a few hours no water or provisions were put on board. Storms came up and drove the boat out of her course.

All night the boat fought the squalls and on Sunday it became becalmed. Sunday night the boat began to leak.

The women in the party tore up their skirts and the strips were rammed in the crevices.

Late yesterday afternoon the tug John Glenn passed near and the captain found the entire party, overcome by exhaustion and thirst, in the cabin of the boat.

VENEZUELA TO PAY BELGIUM.

Two Million Dollars for Disputed Claims in Hague Tribunal.

Caracas, Saturday, Aug. 3.—Via Willemstad, Curacao, Aug. 7.—Venezuela advised Belgium last Wednesday, July 31, that in recognition of the principle of arbitration she would pay the disputed claims of Belgian creditors, amounting to $2,000,000, in conformity with the decision of The Hague tribunal. This act on the part of the government strengthens Castro in his refusal to reopen the matter of the five American claims against Venezuela, which have already been arbitrated. Last month Venezuela intimated very broadly that she would not pay the Belgian claims whereupon Belgium intimated that if Venezuela persisted in her refusal she would protest to the powers and also take up the matter with the United States.
